MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1863.

By Telegraph.

The dispatch this morning does not confirm the report sent to this city yesterday from Salem, in relation to the position of General Grant. Though the assault made by his army on the 22d ult. was not successful, it does not appear that there was any "severe whipping," as reported, or such a repulse as was likely to hinder the capture of Vicksburg, if an attack was made by slow approaches. At any rate, the dispatch is still favorable to Grant's prospects, and we do not propose, at the first symptom of a cloud, to imagine that a thunder-storm has burst over our heads.

Other items of interest will be found in the dispatch, to which we have not time to refer, except to the reported advance in gold, stated in the dispatch to be 174¼. This we feel sure is a telegraphic blunder, and should be 147¼, as there is no apparent reason for any sudden and large advance, and as Sterling exchange, a very reliable test of the financial market, only advanced two per cent. from May 30th to June 3d. Besides, as is well known, the Treasury Department has made such arrangements with the capitalists of New York, as to enable it at any time to check any such spasmodic action of speculators, so that we have no doubt that, as stated, the report is a mistake.

Presidential Speculations.

Our Eastern exchanges begin to be filled with sagacious prophesies in regard to the election of '64, and though we have little confidence in the wisdom of the political soothsayers, so long in advance, especially when it is possible and probable that events may transpire during the next year which will totally turn the popular current, yet it is well enough to note the passing conjectures. John Van Buren, in a recent speech, declared that "the next President would be a democrat, but that he would not be the candidate of the Democratic party," meaning we suppose that the Union organization, now daily growing in magnitude and power, would select its favorite from among its leaders of Democratic antecedents. Perhaps so, though we presume that there are many from the old Whig and Republican ranks who will be unwilling to have their claims set aside without an effort. Mr. Seward may desire to be considered, or Mr. Chase, who, in our judgment, is by far the most able man of the Cabinet, or some twenty others, now so advanced in life that this opportunity lost, none will come again to them. But the Republicans as a party are mostly out of sight, and will be entirely so, from present appearances, in another year.—They have had the President and cannot again claim the position, because their strength, as is always the case, is so much impaired by the mistakes and errors of the Administration, that they alone will be unable to retain the force by which they came into power. It makes no difference that the mistakes were honest or even unavoidable,—they were made, and they have an effect, for which the party is held responsible. Hence, by themselves and without other aid, they cannot succeed, and the present state of affairs compels them to go into the Union organization, where for the sake of success and of the country, they must yield much to their Democratic allies in the same ranks. These, for many reasons, will demand a Democratic leader, and it is not improbable that the claim will be granted, provided some one is named by them of unquestioned loyalty, of ability, of earnest and zealous determination, and who during the war, has proved by his actions that his patriotism was above his love of party. Such a man, and there are several who are all this, will be triumphantly elected by the Union party of the Nation, even though he may not be the first or the last preference of the majority of the Republican wing of the party when nominated. In the list of such men are now the names of Dix, Butler, Dickinson, Holt and Andy Johnson, and to it may shortly be added those of heroic chieftains who shall win victories, and lead our armies forth to the successful conquest of the rebellion. To some one of these, we have little doubt that the eyes of the nation will turn and its cordial support be given, and though we may regret that it is not our privilege to aid in the election of a statesman with whose views we fully coincide, yet if necessary, and with change or surrender of opinion, we shall cheerfully yield our own views, and to the best of our ability labor for the success of any honest and competent man who will strive to save the Union from ruin, caring little by what political name he may be called, in what section he lives, or what may have been his antecedents. If we may but have the country free, independent and united, we will gratefully sustain the patriot who has done the most to make it so, and rejoice that it is our privilege to honor ourselves by honoring him.

The Nicaragua Line.—The report of interruption on the Isthmus was entirely unfounded, the passengers for New York having safely arrived.

Letter from Auburn.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

Auburn, May 29th, 1863.

During the last month things have been looking duller and duller about Auburn. A few showers have tantalized our hopes, and now we are pretty effectually "dried up." Blue Canyon creek, which runs through the town, has not to-day as much water in it as it had last September, and the little water that comes to us from Elk creek, about four miles off, being brought by ditches, is but a drop compared to the wants of the miners. The miners have waited patiently for some change in their favor until, becoming discouraged, many have laid their claims over in accordance with the action of the late miners' meeting, and have struck out for Boise, with the rest of the world. Boise has answered, so far, all expectations entertained of it, being a better watered mining region than this. Much work has been done. Some have realized fortunes, while, of course, the multitude are already working for wages, or unsuccessfully searching for claims. We hear often of new excitements, and thousands rushing hither and thither, and also of additional discoveries; but we hear also that even there water is failing and times becoming dull. All will undoubtedly be overdone there in a short time, and when the immigration begins to arrive, wages will come down to a very low figure. Should the Canal Company furnish a fair supply of water early in the fall, Auburn will revive, and a reflux tide from Boise will fill us up again, and with our share of the immigration, will bring us lively times once more. In the meantime, don't imagine we are literally dead, for there is quite an amount of gold being dug, and those merchants who have remained are doing a very fair business. Auburn was always too large a place for the actual needs of this vicinity. Hundreds of immigrants wintered here because they could not get elsewhere, and the town assumed proportions quite in excess of all permanent needs.

From the mines in the Eagle mountains, near the mouth of Powder river, we hear reports of good wages being made, and also from other parts of the country beyond Burnt river, the miners are doing well.

I am told that Grand Ronde valley has a thriving town in progress that promises to be of permanent importance. Le Grande is situated where the old emigrant road comes down into the valley, and is already quite a place. Should the travel continue to be on that route, Le Grande will be in an excellent location, and the key to the agricultural country around it, and will likely become the seat of some county in the future. Baker county is two hundred and forty miles long, north and south, and far too large for practical purposes. By the next session of the legislature the country will have been prospected and settled so that a division will be practicable and necessary, and should the valley of Grand Ronde become as well settled and improved as it is easily capable of, its valuable agricultural qualities will render it the most important valley east of the Blue mountains, and Le Grande will become a county seat and a permanent and thriving place, similar to the up river towns of the Willamette.

Powder river valley is an extensive and beautiful valley, but not only lacks the fertility that characterizes the Grand Ronde, but has a much severer climate. Frosts occur there early in September and late in the spring, and most of its land is covered with sage brush and grease wood, and is unfit for cultivation. Still there is good land in Powder river valley, and any amount of grazing can be found there and on the foot hills of the mountains, and the wild hay can be put up to good advantage for the wintering of stock. This hay sells here now at $100 per ton, and a small supply on hand at that. Pocahontas is the name of a village in the valley, situated about twelve or fifteen miles from here. Should Powder river ever amount to much as an agricultural country, Pocahontas will be a thriving village.

Amid all the desertion of our place we have one luxury to be thankful for, a brewery has lately been started, in fact, two of them; and instead of continually pouring "rot gut" down their throats the drinking part of the community change off on to lager beer, and a very good article, too, which promises a longer life to many of them, and temperate men like myself enjoy a wholesome glass once in a while.

Gold Harvest.—The Lewiston people were greatly rejoiced last Tuesday, at the arrival of a party from Boise, bringing $59,000 worth of gold dust, who came through from the mines in forty-six hours travelling time; they reported good roads, free from Indians, and that there was no necessity for keeping guard at night over packs or animals. Miners are doing very well and every prospect is favorable. The citizens at Lewiston held a meeting, raised $2,000 immediately, and appointed a committee to employ a company of men and carry out the intent and wishes of the people of Lewiston in constructing a good road to Boise at the earliest practicable moment. The committee have selected H. D. Sanborn, Esq., to superintend the expedition. Mr. S. has started with fifteen laborers all mounted and fully prepared with all kinds of implements, &c., for the work to be accomplished. They will remove all rocks and obstructions found, will build such bridges as may necessary, on small streams or over deep gulches, and place ferries or rafts on such places as are necessary. It is believed that Colonel Maury will send a detachment in connection with Mr. Sanborn and company, to assist in expediting the work. It is now a settled point that there will be a good road in and out from Lewiston to the Boise country.

The affair between General Corcoran and Lieutenant-Colonel Kimball brings to mind an anecdote which used to be told of a New Hampshire soldier who served upon the northern frontier during the war of 1812. He was known to be very strict in the performance of orders and duties, and one night when upon guard, General Ripley, from some cause not mentioned, endeavored to pass him, but was hailed and ordered to stand. "Do you not know me, sentinel?" asked the General. The reply was "Yes; I know you very well in the daytime, General Ripley, but I don't know you at night. No one can pass me without the countersign." The levelling of the soldier's musket was as significant as his words were, and Ripley retired. It is not known whether he made the experiment to try the sentinel, but it is certain that he did not shoot him. The brave fellow fell in a charge upon the British just before the close of the war.

The attention of the President has been called to the difficulty arising from the rebel acts of Congress authorizing the killing of negroes taken in arms, and it is probable that a proclamation will soon be issued that will have the effect of putting captured blacks on the footing of prisoners of war. When that is done it will be fair to ask the darkies to enlist, but not before.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to June 3d.

Particulars of Grant's Repulse.

Rebel Defeat near Port Hudson!

Chicago, June 2d.—The following is the only connected account of the Federal repulse at Vicksburg, on May 22d, yet published:—By 2 o'clock on that morning, our artillery fired and destroyed three magazines in the Forts. The first and third brigades of Logan's division, commanded by Gen. Smith and Stevenson, advanced at half past eleven o'clock. Two regiments of Stevenson's brigade were provided with scaling ladders 40 feet long, but had no opportunity to use them, being driven back before reaching the rifle pits.—Logan's men advanced bravely but were overwhelmed by numbers. Less than two companies reached the parapet and rushed into the Fort where they were captured. The colors of the 18th Missouri was planted on the parapet after seven of the color bearers had been shot down amid the terrible storm of bullets and grape shot. The 3d brigade maintained its position until they ratified.—They advanced holding their fire to pour into the rifle pits. The rebels gave them volley after volley as they approached with terrible effect. Stevenson's loss is nearly 300. Quinby's division joined bravely in the assault, but they could not accomplish the work assigned them, and we were driven back with heavy loss.

McClernand commenced his assault earlier than any other commander. His first advance was by his centre. Smith's division of two brigades, under Col. Landrum, took the fort and were in actual possession. Gen. Astrau on the left, made a breach in the south side of their works. There were two companies of rebel soldiers inside—one ran off, the other surrendered. Landrum in obtaining possession of the fort, put the force to work to throw up earthworks in the rear, so as to bring the guns of the fort to bear upon the rebels in constructing their fortifications. The rebels left the rear of all their forts open to give opportunity to assault our men in the event of our success in driving them out. The flags of the 48th Ohio, 77th Illinois and 19th Kentucky floated on the inner parapet from 11 to 3 P. M., when the rebels were seen preparing for the charge. Our men were not supported and fell back, when the enemy again took possession.

Memphis, June 1st.—Saturday night the Luminary arrived with news from below, to the 28th. She reports the gunboat Cincinnati sunk by the fire of the Vicksburg batteries on the 20th, with a loss reported of over 20 killed and wounded. Several of our men were captured by the rebels, and had been paroled on account of the scarcity of food.

New York, June 2d.—Port Royal advices state that our forces in Barley Island were attacked on the 20th of May, by the rebels, who were repulsed.

Gen. Hunter issued an order, drafting all the able bodied men not in the employ of the Government, found in the Department, after the 25th of June. It is stated that an expedition is being sent into the interior of Florida.

The British blockade runner, in trying to get out of Charleston, was discovered on the 20th of May, and sunk before it could reach the bar, by the Rowhatten. The officers and crew are supposed to have perished. On the 23d, another steamer was discovered and fired into. She crossed the bar under a heavy fire and sunk in the main channel off Morris Island. Both had large cargoes.

It was reported that all furloughs had been ordered to Virginia, but Hunter had refused to let them go and sent a protest to the President. The monitors still lie off Edisto. The iron-clads are opposite Fort Sumter.

New York, May 31st.—Letters from headquarters near Vicksburg, says our loss is 2,500 killed and wounded. The rebel loss is trifling. Our army is not demoralized, but there seems to be a lack of cooperation between the subordinate officers in charge of storming parties, which perished for want of support. No second attempt to reduce Vicksburg by assault will probably be made. The city will probably be taken by approaches.—No danger of attack in the rear apprehended. Dispatches from rebel Gen. Pemberton to Lee or Johnson intercepted, says, don't attack Grant's rear with less than 15,000!

On the 8th of May, the French troops met Comonfort, who having received reinforcements, tried to attack the rear of the French forces. The battle took place near San Lorenzo. Comonfort lost 2,500 killed, wounded and prisoners, seven or eight rifled cannon, and a greater portion of his supplies and munitions of war.

New York, June 2.—The Post's Washington dispatch says, nothing further is known in regard to the movement of Lee, but many exciting rumors are circulated.

It is stated that Sam Houston is to run as a candidate for Governor of Texas, with the design of forming a Republic of Texas.

The Times' dispatch says: Hunter has been relieved of command of the Department of the South. Gen. Q. A. Gilmore succeeds him.

A reconnoissance to Warrenton to-day developed a rebel movement in that direction.

Cincinnati, June 2.—News received from Kentucky last night, report the enemy falling back towards Cumberland Gap, closely pursued by the 9th army corps, the majority of whom are mounted infantry.

New York, June 2.—A dispatch in the N. O. Era, dated Port Hudson Plains, May 22d, says, yesterday, Auger's whole division was engaged in a nine hours' fight at Port Hudson Plains, four miles in the rear of that place on the Bayousara road. The enemy were thoroughly whipped, and left a large number of killed and wounded on the field. The rebel General sent a flag of truce at midnight, asking permission to bury his dead. We took 1,000 prisoners. The enemy were driven three miles from the first position, and Auger bivouacked on the field of battle. Our loss is 12 killed and 56 wounded. Our men fought with great bravery.

A Baton Rouge letter, dated May 14th, states that Gen. Dudley, with two divisions, made an expedition up the Clinton road, reaching Bayousara. The rebel pickets were driven within two miles of Port Hudson. They also cut the telegraph wire and burned a rebel camp.

Rumors from Pascagoula reached New Orleans on May 21st, that Mobile had been attacked. One rebel stated that a telegraphic dispatch had been received at Pascagoula from Mobile to the effect that Fort Morgan had gone under.

Chicago, June 2.—The National Canal Convention met in this city to-day. Hamlin, the Vice President of the United States, was elected permanent Chairman, with one Vice President. Each State was represented. Nothing of importance transpired during the session. The Convention will probably adjourn to-morrow or next day.

Gen. Burnside has issued an order suppressing the Times, of this city, which causes considerable comment. It is believed that the President will revoke the order.

Cincinnati, June 2.—Col. Corwin defeated the rebels under Gen. Rodley, at Florence, Ala., on the 27th, capturing eight officers, 100 men, 400 mules, 300 negroes. He also destroyed a number of foundries, mills, and everything useful to the enemy in that vicinity.

Washington official dispatches from Vicksburg, of the 29th indicate that there will be a change of affairs there, but the prospects of Grant are still encouraging.

New York, June 2.—The following is additional news from New Orleans: The Brashears, La., dispatch of May 22d, states that the steamer Belle was fired on between Brashears and Washington by guerrillas. The captain of the steamer was killed, and ten men wounded. The fire was returned, and several of the enemy killed; the others were driven off.

Fortress Monroe, June 2.—The Charleston Courier of May 26th, says, on Wednesday last the steamer Eagle left Nassau for a Confederate port. During the night she was fired into and captured by a Yankee cruiser. The second shot killed three of her crew.

A fire at Williamsburg, N. C., destroyed a large warehouse filled with spirits of turpentine and 1,500 bales of cotton. The cotton belonged to the Government. The loss is believed to be very heavy.

The Richmond Dispatch of May 30th says, that the telegram announced that Gen. Banks has crossed his army at Bayousara. This is about 10 miles above Port Hudson. His object is to get behind the post of Wheeler. Wharton is in our front.

New York, June 3.—The steamer George Cromwell arrived from New Orleans to-day.

Seventy-five prisoners arrived at New Orleans, May 26th, from Baton Rouge. Among them was ex-Gov. Robert Wickliffe who was captured near Port Hudson.

The Era of the 27th ult., says Banks moved down the Red river with his army, and crossed the Bayousara, thence to Port Hudson, where he united his forces with those of Augers. The Gunboats under Farragut were to go up on the 24th. The mortar fleet opened on Port Hudson on the night of the 24th, silencing several of the enemy's guns. Port Hudson is now besieged and hemmed in. The fall of this stronghold will be certain, should Gen. Banks order an assault on the works. The garrison of Port Hudson is estimated at about 10,000. They are scantily supplied with provisions.

The Circuit Court.—The June Term of this county begins to-day, Judge Shattuck presiding. Jurors are required to be present at 10 o'clock this morning.

Recorder's Court.—George Mitchell, who keeps a saloon in the upper part of town, was arrested on Saturday for selling liquor to Indians, and bound over to appear and answer at the next term of the Circuit Court under bonds of five hundred dollars.

Leary and A. C. Tomlison were brought up for being drunk; the former contributed five dollars and costs, while the latter was fined by the Recorder to advance [illegible] and costs. The week in this Court closed with money considerably easier than was expected.

Arrived.—The bark Almatia, Miller, Captain, from San Francisco, arrived at this port Saturday night last. The following is her manifest:

[illegible]

Where At?—Several calls have been made at this office to know the whereabouts of the "Pitch Buyers." They are requested to give notice where they can be found.

News Depot.—Charles Barrett is always up with the times in receiving the very latest Eastern newspapers, magazines, periodicals, &c., among which are Harper's, Leslies, Gody's, Peterson's, and Eclectic magazines, received by overland mail on Saturday, and for sale by him, cheap.

Theatre.—There was a large audience to witness the great Indian tragedy of "Nick of the Woods," Saturday night last, and the play was well rendered. On to-morrow, (Tuesday) night, the great moral drama of "The Drunkard" will be played, and as this play is a good or even better than "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room," which had such a run here, a full house is expected. There will only be three nights play, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, each week, until further notice.

The Docket.—There are 101 civil, 29 chancery, and about 15 criminal suits to be tried at the present term of the circuit court.

Attention, Board of Delegates of the City of Portland.—The Board will meet at the Council Chamber this Monday evening, June 8th, at 8 o'clock. Per order of the President.

EXPECTORANT

AND SANATIVE PILLS

HAVE BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC SO LONG and found such general favor in every region of country [illegible] have been [illegible] (and there is no place on the civilized globe where they are not consumed) that it would seem almost superfluous to [illegible] to direct attention to them through the medium of the press Yet it is due to suffering humanity, and especially to that numerous class who in the changeable climate of the Pacific Coast, suffer from

inducing and ending in CONSUMPTION, many of whom may not [illegible] of this remedy that they should be allowed to remain [illegible] of the cases where its influence has been useful in remedying complaints from which they are suffering The EXPECTORANT

Operates immediately upon the Disease,

SUBDUING AND SPEEDILY ERADICATING IT

while the SANATIVE PILLS by preserving regularity in the Bowels and giving a healthy tone to the other internal organs [illegible] and assist the perfect operation of the former

Attention is asked to the following Certificates, selected at random from the mass in the possession of the proprietors

Upper Uwchlan, Chester Co Pa, Sept 1, 1858.

Dr D Jayne—Having been afflicted with ASTHMA and BRONCHITIS and having the advice of some of the most eminent physicians whose skillful treatment of my case [illegible] to be of any avail I obtained no relief for my suffering until I commenced the use of your EXPECTORANT After taking it for about three months, I was entirely cured

NATHAN PENNYPACKER.

Astoria, Long Island, Jan 1, 1860.

I W Tindell, Esq New York—Sir As you well know I had been afflicted with BRONCHITIS accompanied with the most painful tightness of the chest and great difficulty in breathing for nearly two months, and I had almost lost all confidence in the power of medicine, when at your friendly suggestion I began the use of your (but not enough known) EXPECTORANT of Dr Jayne of Philadelphia Three or four days after having commenced to take it my cough had nearly entirely [illegible] the expectoration was [illegible] quite free

I am now quite well [illegible] and my general health has never been better

I remain, my dear Tindell with esteem, your servant and friend — J B MONTE.

Winfield Tuscarawas C O May 31, 1860

Dr D Jayne—Dear Sir One bottle of your Expectorant cured my daughter of the LONG FEVER after having been beyond the hopes of recovery During the attack she had a number of convulsions She is now perfectly well — J H COFFMAN, Burlington Bradford Co Pa, July 23, 1863.

Dr. D Jayne—Dear Sir My son was for one and a half years afflicted with [illegible] CONSUMPTION For two years [illegible] not able to labor He was finally induced to try your EXPECTORANT and PILLS, and after taking 10 bottles and [illegible] PILLS, was completely cured, and is now able to labor on the farm — JOHN HENRY

We would add to the above that we sold to Mr Henry the medicine [illegible] seen and know that the statement is true — MERRY WILHELM & CO

CHARLES BARRETT S

A Mysterious Lodger

In September, 1853, I occupied a room in a two story frame building on Stockton street. In the house were perhaps half a dozen lodgers, possibly more. As I seldom visited my room during the day, and invariably retired at twelve o'clock, I rarely met any of my neighbors, or, if I did, it was without my knowing them. With two of my fellow lodgers I became partially acquainted. One was a middle aged man, occupying a room adjoining mine, and divided from it by a thin partition. Against that thin boundary stood our beds—the middle aged gentleman's and mine—not to exceed three inches apart. The middle aged gentleman was wedded to the habit of snoring. And his was a peculiar snore, not a periodical murmur, accompanying every fourth or fifth perspiration, but a terrific and uninterrupted combination of snorts, groans, and snuffles, with the addition of teeth grinding, and occasional plunges of the extremities against the creaking headboard. For a week I bore up against the clatter. At length one night I knocked at his door. I was desperate. He rose, struck a light, and for the first time we met face to face. I had prepared myself to deluge him with sarcasm—to abuse him with billingsgate—to sink him with abuse. His face was so round and jovial, and his head so entirely destitute of hair, that I could not summon courage to utter a harsh word. For a moment we peered silently into each other's faces.

"Can I do anything for you?" I inquired.

Smith, for that was his name, must have read my thoughts, must have known that he snored, must have been aware of the object of my visit, for he immediately replied:

"Yes, my friend, join me in a glass of brandy and water. I have a few drops of something genuine. Permit me to insist," he continued, observing my hesitation, "you will sleep all the better for it," and he gave me a look welling over with commiseration.

I meekly followed him to the side board and we pledged each other in a glass of ancient vintage. He then pressed me to smoke a cigar. I could scarcely do less. Sitting on the side of the bed, with his fat legs swinging good naturedly, Smith was a picture. Together we would have afforded an amusing sketch for Punch. He talked incessantly, and before I left him, we touched glasses several times, and I firmly resolved that he might snore night and day for a year to come, and I would not disturb him. I wrung his hand in an ecstacy of friendship, and bade him an affectionate good night. I tumbled into bed, but tried in vain to sleep. Smith's brandy was playing strange tricks with my fancy, and I felt as though something was whispering, as to "Macbeth," "Sleep no more!" I lit a candle, and found it was two o'clock. Irritated at my wakefulness, I drew on my clothes and was soon in the street. The moon rode high in the heavens, and the night was beautiful as a poet's dream. Strolling along the street as far as Clay, I suddenly turned the corner, and encountered a crowd of half drunken rowdies, standing in front of a house they had either just left, or were about to enter. In the act of retracing my steps, I heard some one exclaim, in a boyish tone:

"Not to-night, gentlemen, some other time, but not to-night; please excuse me."

The speaker, in passing along the street, had been stopped by the rowdies, and invited to drink.

"Bah," exclaimed a number of voices. "You must come up to the scratch—either drink or fight."

"But, gentlemen, I cannot," insisted the stranger, struggling to free himself from the grasp of his persecutors. "I can neither drink nor fight to-night; I am not well."

"Gammon!" growled the party, attempting to force him into the house.

I felt that, as a conservator of the peace and champion of society, it was my duty to interfere. Smith's brandy told me so, and furnished the nerve, in addition, to carry out the resolution. Stalking quietly in upon the crowd, I laid my hand upon the boy's shoulder and requested him to follow me. He turned to comply, when "Give him one!" yelled one of the rowdies, and the next moment I received a blow in the back of the neck, and found myself leaning against the side of a house. I was not stunned, but exasperated beyond measure. The liquor of my bald headed fellow lodger steeled my nerves to action, and I threw myself into a position of defence. Not doubting my perfect ability to scatter that crowd over an acre of ground, I invited the unequal contest. The appearance of a policeman spared the impending slaughter, for the party suddenly left the field. My companion informed the officer of what had occurred, and he started in pursuit of the retreating rowdies, enjoining us to find the way to our lodgings. Taking the arm of the lad, we proceeded towards my room. He was a pale faced, interesting looking young man of perhaps eighteen or nineteen years, remarkably well bred and intelligent. He was dressed in good taste, without affecting any of the airs of mature years, and I was quite taken with him. He told me his name was Richard Jansen, that he was alone in California but not without means; that he lived on Stockton street, and, visiting a friend that evening, had been detained to that unusual hour. In a few moments we arrived at my lodgings, and observing that he evinced little inclination to part with me, I invited him to accept a portion of my bed for the night. He smilingly declined, stating that he was quite near his own; and I then learned, for the first time, that he occupied a room in the same house on the same floor with myself. Thus I became acquainted with two of my fellow lodgers.

Jansen and myself often met after that, but it was always in the street or on the stairway. He never invited me to his room or accepted an invitation to mine. He visited me but once at my office, and then remained less than five minutes. How he spent his time I did not inquire. He was a mystery. I spoke of him to Smith one day. Strange to say, that gentleman had never seen him, but from my description of him, ventured the opinion that he was either a gambler or a genteel pickpocket. I was reluctantly forced to the conclusion that Smith was right, and after that I treated the young man with unusual coldness. He observed the change, and his look wore a reproach so sorrowful that I half repented having harbored the suspicion of my very amiable looking friend, who was fearfully averse to all mysteries.

Occasion called me to my room one evening, at an earlier hour than usual. I heard a soft rap at my door, and on opening it, found Jansen standing in the entry. "Come in, Jansen," I exclaimed, throwing open the door.

"Would you not prefer taking a walk?" he inquired. "The night is beautiful."

"I believe not to-night," I replied, "some other time." I was a little piqued that he should persist in remaining outside the door.

"I should have been much pleased to have you," he rejoined, "I have a few words to say to you in justice to myself, and—"

"Enough," I interrupted, "I will go." I felt sure he wished to tell me something of himself, and I was all anxiety to hear it. It was unpleasant to think him a pickpocket or sharper, and I hoped he might be able to prove to me that he was neither.

[Concluded to-morrow.]

A Sign.—The Richmond Examiner accuses the Whig of Virginia of acting in the spring elections in accordance with their old Union views. It says they endeavor to seduce democrats by appealing to the "old Union sentiment," by attempting to prejudice them against democratic leaders as the authors of the present war, and by saying that they (the whigs) could have prevented a dissolution and are now the only party capable of restoring the ancient order of things.

Naval warfare, since the introduction of ironclads, is getting to be a very cool affair. While the big guns of Fort McAllister were pounding away at our monitors the officers and men dined with their usual nonchalance, and afterwards smoked their cheroots and meerschaums behind the revolving towers, against which heavy shot were constantly falling, with as much coolness and composure as if Fort McAllister had been a thousand miles away.

Pins are one cent apiece in Richmond; needles, 5 cents; darning needles, 25; box of matches, 75 to $1; pound of common soap, $1 50 to $2; beef, not fit to eat, $1 50; Irish potatoes, $12 per bushel; sweet potatoes, $10. And we think ought to be added, Union men can't be got at any price.

When Gen'l Butler was at Fortress Monroe he was puzzled to discover how the men got so outrageously and regularly drunk, until it was observed that they seemed to hold their guns up very straight, and upon an examination being made it was found that every gun-barrel was filled with whisky.

Attached to some of the rebel shells sent into Washington, N. C., were some of the Shenoki percussion fuses, bearing the mark of George H. Fox & Co., Boston, manufacturers. The Boston boys thought it a little funny to meet such specimens of home manufacture in that place.

A debating club in Worcester lately discussed the important question: "Whether a rooster's knowledge of daybreak is the result of observation or instinct."

The Richmond Whig confesses that cotton is no longer King—that "pork has dethroned him." But what must be the subject when the King is a hog? That's what we want to know.

LEGAL.

U. S. INCOME TAX.

THE LAW CONTEMPLATES THAT EVERY ONE shall pay on all net profits (less $600) derived from any source whatever. A person is allowed to deduct all legally assessed National, State and County Taxes, hired help, Rents, Drayage, &c., necessary to carry on his business; but no farmer, merchant, mechanic, or any person has a right to deduct his own living or family expense from his income.

The Income Tax is to be paid on the income of the year commencing January 1st, 1862, so that on the evening of December 31st, 1862, everybody should make up a record of their income gains or profits for that year. And as many sources of income, such as Dividends and Railroad Bonds and Stocks, Insurance Stock, Savings Banks, interest, &c., (they having already paid the income tax,) are not again taxed, it therefore becomes necessary to have a clear record of the sources of income, that there may be no dispute with the Assessor.

All corporations must deduct the three per centum before declaring their dividends.

For Example:

A man in business must make up the nett profits of his business for the year, and pay the tax on the amount less $600.

A man may outside of his business spend all and even more than his profits in the business, nevertheless he must pay tax on all nett business profits except the $600. And so with a salary, all over $600 must be taxed, though personal or family expenses consume it all.

The Income Tax for the year 1862 is assessable on the first day of May 1863, and is due and payable on or before the 30th June 1863. And any sum so due and unpaid for thirty days after the 30th June [illegible] and for ten days after demand by the Collector, five per centum will be added to the amount [illegible].

Each individual of any firm or partnership must make his income separately.

INDUCED by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous adventurers have opened upon suffering humanity [illegible] grades of liquor [illegible] with injurious drugs and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations [illegible] bottles [illegible] under the [illegible] of Bitters, [illegible] of curing, only aggravate disease, and leave the [illegible] sufferer in despair.

Hoofland's German Bitters!

Are not a new and untried article, [illegible] have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American [illegible] and their reputation and sale are not rivalled by any similar preparation.

The proprietors have thousands [illegible] from the most eminent

CLERGYMEN,
LAWYERS,
PHYSICIANS,
[illegible] CITIZENS,

Testifying of their own personal knowledge, to the beneficial effects and medical virtues of these Bitters.

Do you want something [illegible] then you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?

If so use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I, therefore, thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN.
Philadelphia, June 23, 1861.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whiskey or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt: Get One Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with Three Quarts of Good Brandy or Whiskey, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION SOLDIERS!
AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS.

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language, "has been saved by the Bitters."

PHILADELPHIA, August 23 1862.

Messrs Jones & Evans—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, and under the immediate command of Captain R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House, and sent to this city on board the steamer "State of Maine," from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and, accordingly the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of Sixth below Arch Street, advised me as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters, and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours,
ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to life.
